Nordic Korean Studies Days 2019
May 11-15, 2019, University of Copenhagen
Public Talks

Monday (March 11)
12:30-13:30 “Current Day Pseudo Historiography of Early Korea and Counter Critiques” by Andrew Logie (Assistant Professor, University of Helsinki)

16:30-17:30 “Political Leadership on the Korean Peninsula: Consolidation of Democracy in South Korea” by Gabriel Jonsson (Senior Lecturer, Stockholm University)

Tuesday (March 12)
12:30-13:30 “Folklore and Folklore Studies in North Korea” by Sonja Häussler (Professor, Stockholm University)

16:30-17:30 “North Korea: A Country under (Socialist?) Construction” by Sabine Burghart (University Lecturer, University of Turku)

Wednesday (March 13)
12:30-13:30 “The Individual and the Community in Korea” by Antti Leppänen (Researcher, University of Turku)

14:00-15:00 “Korea in the National Museum in Copenhagen” by Martin Petersen (Senior Researcher, National Museum)

Thursday (March 14)
12:30-13:30 “A New Approach to Transmedia Storytelling: The Story Universe of The Journey to the West as Case Study” by Barbara Wall (Assistant Professor, University of Copenhagen)

16:30-17:30 “Communist Movement in Colonial Korea as a Cultural Phenomenon” by Vladimir Tikhonov (Professor, University of Oslo)

Friday (March 15)
9:00-10:00 “The (Too Hot to Be) Cold War in Korea by Sungju Park-Kang (Adjunct Professor, University of Turku)

14:00-15:30 “Globalization and Local Agency in the Deployment of the THAAD (Terminal High Altitude Area Defense) System in South Korea” by Seungsook Moon (Professor, Currently Resident Director of Vassar College, London)

All questions to Barbara Wall barbara.wall@hum.ku.dk